

The brotherhood and alumni of Sigma Phi Epsilon, VA Kappa, wish to express our deepest gratitude to all who generously donated to both the Capital Campaign and the New Chapter House Construction project. Through your generosity, we raised approximately $2.5 million which enabled our beloved fraternity the opportunity to build a new chapter house and begin our journey as an on-campus fraternity in a state of the art facility designed for use as a Residential Learning Community.

We offer special gratitude to John Lawson and Don McNamara, our greatest benefactors, who each contributed over $0.5 million and invested tireless months of sponsorship and planning to make this dream a reality. Thanks again to all who contributed and we appreciate your continued commitment to honor your pledges to VA Tech and VA Kappa.

The brotherhood of VA Kappa also witnessed a wonderful side benefit from this project as many alumni were reunited through phone calls, meetings and social media. Brothers who have been preoccupied with career and family have recently taken the opportunity to reconnect with each other and the chapter. We hope this trend continues and we look forward to seeing more alumni reach out, reconnect and strengthen our brotherhood bonds.

As we make the turn toward our collective future, we will now focus our efforts on the needs of our undergraduate brothers. We hope even more alumni will join us in our ongoing support of this growing group of fine young men and our legacy for the future. Your support of VA Kappa academic and leadership scholarship funds and/or as a volunteer will do much to help accomplish the chapter's vision of becoming the premier student organization at VA Tech.

Thank you again for your generosity and involvement with VA Kappa. We look forward to seeing you on campus and many other communities as we keep our fraternity alive, connected and vibrant!
